Dec. 19, 2003*Anteo Group Consulting Completes Delivery of Large Migration and Consolidation Project for Chugach Electric

ATLANTA (December 19, 2003) - Anteo Group, a leading Atlanta and London based ROI Consulting and project based Information Technology Staffing Company, announces the successful completion and delivery of a large migration and consolidation project for Chugach Electric.

The project had three primary components: (1) the migration of all authentication, network management, file, print and Email services from Novell's product to those provided by Microsoft; (2) the consolidation of over 40 production servers to a target quantity of 15, and; (3) the implementation of new backup technology, a storage area network (SAN) and expansion of the network backbone infrastructure.

Anteo Group provided Chugach Electric with technical consulting expertise. Anteo Group's extensive requirements definition and quality assurance process led to the hire of Anteo Group's consultant Victor Brunette who could develop, lead and implement the complicated project.

The project required only 10 months to complete (April through December of 2003), even though the most optimistic planning that was initially provided to Chugach Electric for this project indicated that it would take a minimum of 18 months to complete.

Chugach Electric is the largest electric utility in Alaska, providing power for Alaskans through wholesale and retail energy sales.
